INSTRUCTIONS for the Tulane Interdisciplinary PhD Program in Aging Studies application.

Your application package must be complete before you mail it to the Program. It should include all of the following items:

- *An official transcript from each institution, submitted in a sealed envelope and signed across the back by the registrar. The college or university should mail the transcripts directly to you, to be submitted unopened with the application. For transcripts in a language other than English, please provide a certified English translation with an explanation of the grading system in the same sealed envelope.
- *Recommendations from three professors, preferably in your major field, should be submitted in a sealed envelope and signed across the back by the recommender. Ask each recommender to return the form /letter to you to be submitted unopened with your application.
- *A completed application form. Please note that the application for admission also serves as the application for remission of tuition and stipend. Also include a curriculum vitae/resumé.
- *A statement of purpose (goals) including the disciplinary aspects or areas of study in which you are most interested, and your plans concerning your interdisciplinary career in the field of aging/gerontology.
- *Include samples of your written work or research, which could be a manuscript or published article, paper given at a professional meeting, substantial paper such as a review article, grant proposal, or other.
- *The acknowledgement sheet with your name and address filled in. Also, include your phone number and e-mail address.

Remember that you should take the Graduate Record Exam (GRE) in the fall. We cannot complete our review of your application without your official GRE scores taken within 5 years of enrollment. International students must also take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL), either paper or internet based. You must ask the Educational Testing Service (ETS) to send your official GRE and TOEFL test scores directly to Tulane. Provide the ETS with the Tulane U- Center for Aging code (6800) for GRE and Tulane U code (6832) for TOEFL.

All application materials, with the exception of the GRE and TOEFL score reports, should be mailed in one envelope (9"X12") to:

Program Coordinator Interdisciplinary PhD Program in Aging Studies Tulane Center for Aging Tulane University 1430 Tulane Ave., MC8513 New Orleans, LA 70112

Only complete application packets will be reviewed. Therefore, it is very important that all of the required documents accompany your application. Sending application materials separately could cause a delay in the processing. However, the application form itself, cv, statement of purpose, and examples of written work should also be sent as an attachment to an e-mail message sent to: aging-studies@tulane.edu.

Materials submitted in support of an application are not released for other purposes and cannot be returned to the applicant.

Please write candidly and analytically about the student's qualifications and potential to carry on advanced study in the field specified, as well as about his or her promise of professional success. In describing such attributes as motivation, intellect, and maturity, please discuss both strong and weak points. Specific examples are more useful than generalizations. If possible, please compare the applicant with others you have recommended who have attended or are attending Tulane University. You may use the other side of this form, or if you prefer, you may attach a separate letter. If you write a separate letter, it is important that you include the information requested on this form.
