

The Lancet: John Schieffelin—fighting viral haemorrhagic fevers

November 22, 2023 3:00 PM

John Schieffelin, Associate Professor at Tulane University, LA, USA, reveals that he was fortunate to be exposed to public service at a young age. “My father was a general paediatrician who spent a lot of time working on injury prevention policies such as requiring infant car seats and seat belts in cars”, shares Schieffelin. “I have come to realise that he had a huge impact on my life, not only by exposing me to so many wonderful places during vacations, but by his work ethic and love of learning”, he added. Read the full story in The Lancet.