Give Green helps fund scholarships, enhance educational programs, and support innovative medical research at Tulane University School of Medicine.

Tulane University's annual giving event, Give Green, is here! From April 8 to 9, the Tulane community comes together to support the programs and initiatives that make our university exceptional. This 48-hour campaign unites alumni, students, parents, faculty, staff, and friends in a collective effort to foster a culture of philanthropy and ensure a vibrant future for Tulane.

Support the School of Medicine

At the School of Medicine, your contributions directly impact our mission to train future physicians and scientists, advance groundbreaking research, and provide exceptional patient care. Donations during Give Green help fund scholarships, enhance educational programs, and support innovative medical research.

Exciting Challenges and Matches

This year, generous donors have presented matching challenges to amplify the impact of your gift:

- Dr. Javier Garcia-Bengochea will match every donation to the School of Medicine, dollar for dollar, up to $6,250.
- Surpassing last year's donor count will unlock an additional $5,000 contribution from Dr. Cliff Gevirtz.

Special Incentive

The first 100 donors who contribute $100 or more to the School of Medicine will receive an exclusive School of Medicine poster as a token of our appreciation.

How to Participate

Join us in making a difference by visiting the School of Medicine's Give Green page.

Together, we can shape the future of medicine and uphold the excellence that defines Tulane University.
