MAJOR RESEARCH INTERESTS:

The primary focus of Dr. Simpson's research efforts is the reduction of high-risk behaviors among adolescents and young adults, especially high sexual risk-taking behaviors.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE:University of Alabama at Birmingham Heersink School of Medicine

Dr. Simpson served as the director of the Maternal and Child Health Bureau-funded Leadership Education in Adolescent Health Training Program and the ACGME-approved Adolescent Medicine Fellowship Program and therefore developed, coordinated, and oversaw didactic, clinical, and research training opportunities for adolescent medicine fellows, psychology post-doctoral fellows, and graduate students in nutrition, nursing, and social work. Dr. Simpson supervised fellows, residents and medical students during their adolescent medicine rotations. Dr. Simpson provided lectures to medical fellows/residents/students on topics such as adolescent preventive services, adolescent development, sexually transmitted infections, teen pregnancy, school health, cultural competence and working with detained youth. She developed an adolescent health education project for the pediatric residents as well as a simulated training experience on contraceptive counseling.

Dr. Simpson led a monthly workshop on implicit bias for pediatric interns during their injury prevention and child advocacy rotation. Dr. Simpson co-developed a virtual workshop that was launched in July 2020 for the UAB Graduate Medical Education community on racism and healthcare. Dr. Simpson was also a co-developer and co-leader of the UAB Department of Pediatrics Health Equity Scholars (HES) Program. HES is a 2-year longitudinal didactic and experiential curriculum which is designed to train pediatric and medicine-pediatric residents to lead advances in child health equity.

Dr. Simpson has also worked with residents and fellows in the following capacities.

Birmingham Metro Alabama Personal Responsibility Education Program

(Simpson, PI)

$285,000

The Birmingham Metro APREP, Responsible.i.am, draws upon partnerships between the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB) and nine different youth serving community organizations and three different medical clinics. This project will enroll youth in the Birmingham metropolitan area between the ages of 15 and 19 years. Responsible.i.am aims to prevent high-risk sexual behavior among youth that may ultimately lead to teen pregnancy and the acquisition of sexually transmitted infections (STIs). To that end, the project team will utilize evidence-based educational programming to equip youth with the necessary skills to resist sexual risk behaviors and to make choices that will promote better health and well-being.
