
INSIDE TulaneMed

September 20, 2021

News

- 1. A firsthand account from the hospital floor as Hurricane Ida approached
 - 2. Residents and fellows step up as Ida impacts New Orleans
 - 3. Emergency grants and loans available to employees
 - 4. Students impacted by Ida can petition the Dean of Students office for assistance
-

Events of the Week

Preventing the Next Pandemic: COVID-19 Researchers at Tulane (CREST) Special ZOOM Seminar by Dr. Peter Hotez, MD, PhD, Wednesday, September 22nd, 9am. Click here to join.

Bariatric Surgery Informational Webinar, Wednesday, September 22, 5pm. Sign up here.

Lagniappe

Tulane School of Social Work is offering twice weekly (Mondays and Thursdays) live mindfulness/meditation sessions via zoom.

Zoom link for Monday session

Zoom link for Thursday session

TSSW also has a curated web site dedicated to self-care resources for adults, children and families at <https://selfcaretips.tulane.edu/>

Tell us your news

A team effort

The call went out as Hurricane Ida approached Louisiana packing winds of up to 150 miles per hour – who would be available to work on the Code Grey clinical teams that would ride out the storm and stay for its aftermath?

The resident and fellow physicians of Tulane University School of Medicine answered that call without hesitation. Read more here.