

Dear Tulane SOM Community,

Tulane GWIMS stands united with our Black/African American colleagues in condemning systemic racism, societal inequities, and discrimination which continues to plague our country. We will continue to advocate for and support initiatives to increase the number of Black/African Americans, as well as other under-represented individuals, in medicine and science and at the Tulane School of Medicine. We appreciate and recognize the significance of all of the identities that "Women in Medicine and Science" bring to our professions, especially those at the intersections of these identities. We will continue to promote and support diversity, equity, and inclusion and to that end, we offer you to join us to become better advocates for change. Here are some resources to help.
