1) GENERAL POLICY STATEMENT

Tulane University’s Office of Emergency Preparedness and Response (OEP) is charged with preparation, prevention, and response to all-hazards events at the University through comprehensive risk assessment, training, planning, mitigation and response. OEP coordinates the University's response in a variety of emergency situations, activating Tulane's Incident Command team, issuing mass emergency communications, and coordinating with the City of New Orleans' Office of Emergency Management and with parishes (counties) in the Greater New Orleans Metropolitan area where Tulane has business operations. In case of an emergency, students enrolled in the School of Medicine (all years) are to follow the University’s instructions for responding to the situation. Students rotating at facilities outside the New Orleans area should follow local emergency response policies and procedures. However, regardless of location, Tulane medical students are never part of an emergency team and should always evacuate according to Tulane University directions.
