

Curriculum Vitae
Rebecca Lee Crumpler, M.D.<sup>1</sup>

---

PERSONAL INFORMATION

Address: Hyde Park, Boston, MA
Phone: 504.742.5425
Email: First_African-American_femaleMD@aol.com

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

BS, 1891 New York University (with Honors)
New York, NY

MD, 1864 New England Female Medical College
Boston, MA

BOARD CERTIFICATION

1894 American Board of Preventive Medicine (ABPM)

OTHER TRAINING

APPOINTMENTS

July 1874 – Aug 1876 Professor, New Castle Delaware
August 1892 – July 1895 American College of Preventive Medicine Fellow

HONORS/AWARDS

1866 Wade Scholarship Fund
1872 Delta Omega Honor Society (Eta Chapter)

NIH STUDY SECTIONS

National Institutes of Health
Social Sciences, Nursing, Epidemiology and Methods Study Section
(SNEM-4) 1894 to 1908

BOARD/COUNCIL POSITIONS

Local and Regional:
National and International Committees:

RESEARCH GRANTS/FUNDING/CONTRACTS

1902 – 1906 Principal Investigator
R01 AG 61506-01A2
Cohort Study of Typhoid Infection in Lawyers' Households
National Institutes of Health/NIA/NHLBI
FY 1905: $438,433 total: $347,638 direct
Total FY 1902-1906: $1,966,244 Total Direct: $1,548,841

---

<sup>1</sup> Details provided herein are fictitious and for stylistic purposes only

R.L. Crumpler, M.D.

Date

COMMITTEES

1905 – Present Infectious Disease Residency Advisory Committee
Chair – 1907 to present

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

American Medical Group Association
American College of Preventive Medicine - Member (1902 - 1906)

TEACHING

INVITED LECTURES

Local and Regional Conferences and Meetings:

National and International Conferences and Meetings:

DOCTORAL DISSERTATION COMMITTEES

PRE-DOCTORAL STUDENT TEACHING, MENTORING AND RESEARCH

POST-DOCTORAL TRAINEES

POST-DOCTORAL AND JUNIOR FACULTY TEACHING AND MENTORING FOR RESEARCH

FELLOWS ADVISEE

EDITORIAL/PEER REVIEW ACTIVITIES AND POSITIONS

Journal Ad Hoc Reviewer:

PEER REVIEW MANUSCRIPTS

Peer Review Manuscripts Published/In Press:

Manuscripts currently under peer-review:

Writing Committees, Works in Progress:

Other Publications:

Editorials:

Letters:

Book Chapters

TIPS

1. Number your Grants, Publications, Oral Presentations, Teaching Assignments, etc.
2. Always number items in reverse chronologic order so that your most recent item is first. This is incredibly helpful for those reviewing your CV who wish to quickly calculate how many publications/awards/teaching assignments, etc. you have had since a particular time, such as since your last promotion, etc.
3. Highlight your name in publications so reviewers can readily determine how many publications are first or senior author.
4. Oral presentations: include relevant details about location, (this indicates regional, national, international reputation), as well as date and any details that speak to the importance, novelty, or prestige of the presentation.
5. Be sure to include the month along with the year for academic appointments. Most reviewers analyze productivity since your last promotion. If you provide a month and year, it is clear which grants, research, scholarship occurred since your last promotion and should be included in assessing your productivity.
6. It is preferable to use your personal/home contact information in your CV.
7. As you build your CV, you may need to divide the publication section into subsections. A peer-reviewed journal is a scholarly publication that requires that each article submitted for publication be judged by an independent panel of scholarly or scientific peers who are experts in their fields. Articles not approved by a majority of these peers are not accepted for publication by the journal. Peer-reviewed journals can often be identified by their editorial statements or instructions to authors (usually in first few pages of the journal or at the end). Such division can highlight the number of publications you have in peer-reviewed journals with more stringent editorial standards.
8. An effective CV format highlights content. Select a visually appealing layout. Use only a single font for the entire document. Make sure all headings and sub headings have the same style. Keep indentations and tabs consistent throughout the document. Make sure content is accurate and honest. Don't include anything on your CV (including publications, presentations, hobbies, professional activities, etc.) you are not prepared to discuss at length. Avoid excessive space between headings.
9. If you are fluent in another language and if you believe that will differentiate you from other applicants, include a "language" entry in the "personal information" section. If you are not fluent in a particular language but have some proficiency, either don't list the language or stipulate clearly, such as "Spanish (reading proficiency)."
10. List your MD, MPH, MSPH, or MPH&TM separately. Even though you completed these as part of a combined degree program, you will have earned separate degrees.
11. As your career develops, you might need to add a separate section for national committees and board positions, and you may eventually need to divide that section into "current" and "prior" subsections.