Tubbs named president elect of AACA

His discoveries in human anatomy have been used by surgeons around the world, and now Shane Tubbs, PhD, is helping lead a premiere organization for anatomists. Tubbs, Neurosurgery Professor and Structural & Cellular Biology Professor at Tulane University School of Medicine, has been named president elect of the American Association of Clinical Anatomists.

“The Association promotes the application of anatomical principles to the solution of clinical problems and/or the application of clinical observations to expand anatomical knowledge. This bridge between anatomy and physicians and other health care providers is important for improving patient care.”
