News

1. Hurricane Ida: Tulane School of Medicine responds.
2. Emergency grants and loans available to employees and students
3. Tulane researchers develop inhaled vaccine against bacterial pneumonia
4. Myra Kleinpeter, MD, MPH, says lessons learned after Katrina helped dialysis patients following Ida
5. Denese Shervington, MD, MPH talks to NPR about mental health of people evacuating or staying for the storm
6. NBC News interviews Joshua Denson, MD, about evacuating and sheltering during a pandemic
7. John Carlson, MD, shares advice about cleaning up mold

Events of the Week

Dean’s open office hours, Tuesday, September 14th, at 2pm, Tidewater lobby.
Lagniappe

Tulane School of Social Work is offering twice weekly (Mondays and Thursdays) live mindfulness/meditation sessions via zoom.

Zoom link for Monday session
Zoom link for Thursday session

TSSW also has a curated web site dedicated to self-care resources for adults, children and families at https://selfcaretips.tulane.edu/

---

Tulane responds to Hurricane Ida

Hurricane Ida was one of the strongest storms ever to make landfall in Louisiana. As Mother Nature brought her worst, Tulane Health System delivered its best.

Click here to see more.