Remembering Dr. Caridi

James (Jim) Caridi, MD, Professor and Chair of Radiology, passed away after a valiant battle with cancer. Dr. Caridi was a pioneer and expert in the use of CO₂ angiography. He was routinely contacted by physicians across the world regarding use of this technique.

His life in New Orleans was filled with many celebrations, in which he shared his joy - and often his home - with family, friends, and coworkers. Dr. Jim Caridi will always be remembered for his love of family, including his Tulane family, as well as his love of laughter, all things Italian, and crazy costumes.
