CONGRATULATIONS

The first cohort of the Pathologists’ Assistant program graduated in December 2021 after completing a rigorous 24 months of didactic training and clinical clerkship rotations in anatomic pathology. Graduates of the PA program earn a Master of Science in Anatomic Pathology and are eligible to sit for the American Society for Clinical Pathology Board of Certification examination. This is the first advanced practitioner program at Tulane University and is one of only 12 Pathologists’ Assistant programs in the United States. Our graduates have obtained competitive positions throughout the country. You may read more about our program and our graduates on our Instagram page @tulanepathassist and student website https://www.tupathassist.com/
