

---

INSIDE TulaneMed

October 25, 2021

---

News

1. WWL features Adrian Baudy, MD, and the low sodium hot sauce he invented
2. REMINDER: Complete your mandatory EDI Training by November 30
3. Anjali Niyogi, MD, MPH, helps form mutual aid medical group after Hurricane Ida
4. Ten-digit dialing now in effect for all phone numbers in the 504 area code

Tell us your news

---

Events of the Week

Physiology Seminar Series: Mathematical Modeling of Glomerular Filtration and Mechanics for the Optimization of Glomerulus-on-a-Chip Systems with Owen Richfield, PhD, of Yale University. Monday, October 25 at noon. On Zoom, passcode: 347659.

Demming Department of Medicine Grand Rounds: The Power of Linking Biobanks with Electronic Health Records-From Discovery to Implementation with David Crosslin, PhD. Wednesday, October 27 at noon. On Zoom.

School of Medicine Community Meeting, Wednesday October 27 at 5pm. Register and submit questions here.

What's a Keck grant and how do I get one? Tulane Office of Corporate and Foundation Relations Brown Bag Lunch Thursday, October 28 at noon. Read more about it here.

Submit your event

---

Lagniappe

Submit proposals by October 31, 2021 for the Tulane Center of Excellence Sex-Based Biology & Medicine Transdisciplinary Grant Planning Awards.

Doc's Salt-Free Hot Sauce

While treating patients who loved spicy foods but needed to cut back on their salt intake, nephrologist Adrian Baudy, MD, came up with an idea.

Baudy worked with his father to develop a salt-free hot sauce and now customers around the world are getting all of the spice without the sodium.

Watch the story on WWL.